6.RESOLUTION

Once the final evaluation is completed, the resolution will be communicated to the finalist entities, expectedly by the end of December 2025.

The requested assistance will be allocated either entirely or partially to the selected projects, as deemed appropriate by Altum.

7.FOLLOW-UP AND EVALUATION OF PROJECTS

At Altum, transparency regarding the destination and effective use of assets is key to conducting responsible accountability. Therefore, full traceability in the projects where we co-invest is necessary, with the intention of knowing at all times the amount of money invested, where it is allocated, and its social/evangelical impact.

To fulfill this transparency goal and to verify the proper project management, the following mandatory monitoring and evaluation rules are established for the beneficiary entities of our call:

- Altum may request technical and financial information at any time to verify the correct execution and development of each project.
- Monitoring meetings will be held where the responsible parties of the beneficiary entities will explain to Altum the progress, potential deviations, and difficulties encountered during project development.
- At the end of the project execution period, the responsible parties of the beneficiary entities and Altum will meet for the final project evaluation.
- Entities must submit a final report detailing the achievement of established objectives, the produced impact, and how this impact is intended to be maintained over time. Photographs and any additional material considered relevant must also be attached to this report.
- Altum may request the settlement of the budget with invoices justifying the expenditure of the aid received.

The final justification must be submitted within the deadline established in the collaboration agreement.

Failure to submit the requested justification will invalidate the beneficiary entity from applying to future calls.

8. SIGNING OF AGREEMENTS

After the resolution of the call, the beneficiary entities must sign the collaboration agreement detailing the disbursement method of the aid and the conditions that the entities must meet during the project's development.

The signing of the agreement implies the acceptance of our project monitoring and evaluation policy, committing the entity to comply with the traceability requirements and all other conditions outlined in these guidelines in a timely manner.

Once the aid is received, the entity must send the corresponding donation certificate to Altum Faithful Investing.

9. FINAL PROVISIONS

The submission to this call implies full acceptance of its guidelines and its resolution, as well as the waiver of any claims.

Altum reserves the right to change the content of the guidelines in an extraordinary manner, provided it is for clarifying purposes.

Altum may use project documentation, images provided by the entity to illustrate the project, and the entity's logo in its communications to third parties through any means, to disseminate information about this or future Calls.
